About the Event (Brief description)	Social science deals with the study of society and the relationship among individuals within society. Social science research provides authentic information to the people that are scientifically proven so that end users can rely upon it. Research can find answers to things that are unknown, filling gaps in knowledge. It is essential to develop a sound methodological base of research among the researchers to cope up with challenges in the field of research. A good research methodology is a key to sound research output. Digital social research methods offer a renewed way to understand what is data. The practice of digital research challenges us not only to adapt to new research methods, to 'develop analytic categories that allow us to capture the complex imbrications of technology and society'. The webinar enabled the participants, define research problem, developing an approach to research problem and selection of suitable research design. The content made students aware of the changing demands of the world of work and opportunities.
Notes, Highlights & dialogs with speaker	Why research? How do digital methods supplement the existing methods and techniques in social research? How do the digital research tools contribute to or transform understanding of any research question? How do digital infrastructures, devices and practices open up for the analysis of social life? How do researchers contextualize and situate digital data methodologically?
