SECTION B: Event report and reflection

1. Event objectives

Main purpose of the event was to give the students required inputs to reinvent a game and design innovative toys keeping in mind the social, cultural and ergonomic aspects in mind. This encouraged students to understand and respect the socioeconomic and cultures of societies.

2. Event description:

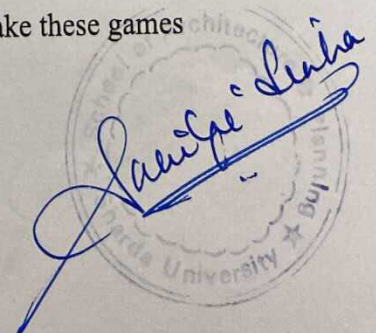

School of Architecture and Planning (SAP) and Institution's Innovation Council (IIC) Sharda University conducted an IPR event for giving insights on Design Ideation & Innovation Week –'Khilone'

1. This lecture covered following pointers:

- Discussed various aspects of Game design and give students insights on how to look at a game and reinvent it.
- Initiated students to the process of designing meaningful games and toys.
- Kickstarted our week long Design Challenge to ideate and innovate games and toys 'Khilone'.

Speakers : Mr. Aman Gopal Surekha

About the speaker – He is a Solution architect for IT infrastructure and manufacturing process automation. He is also the founder of Khol Khel which is a humble effort in reinventing ancient Indian board games for today's generation. Further, in the process of recreating these games, the skills of a lot of talented artisans of rural Bengal have been utilized. He has undertaken the task of reviving an ancient tradition that could be of signal benefit to current notions of culture and society. He is also making efforts to make these games part of urban public spaces.
